We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard. Acts 4:20

In closing this issue, we are much like the fellow who was successful bidder for a contract in that we are now asking ourselves, "Now what did I forget?"

Mabel and I want to say that we appreciated all of the many Christmas greetings we have received, both from big shots and from the peewees. We love 'em all.

Vox Pol - the people have spoken. Hope they spoke wisely about amending the Constitution, and that their action will rebound of a more peaceful people and a greater state.

We are sorrowful that we were unable to get in a lot of Santa Claus letters and will have to save them until next year.

Getting out early this week and our crowded condition forces us to leave out some "must run" stuff like Mrs. Gillon's interesting Gore Springs news.

For this issue, we told Julia Talbert not to monkey with Louie Friedman, Tobe Isenberg and Tommy Darras - that we had set them up for a Christ mas ad already.

Friedman had some minnows left when he fished Thanksgiving Day and put them in his garage. The Knox girls have fed them ever since. They are now quite fat and plump.

Shorty Jones, in from the Gold Coast sady morning, said he had a Christmas present for me and would send it by Santa soon.

I was just like a kid sady morning when I saw on my desk a Christmas-stamped package, addressed to me. I opened it of course, and found a bag of my favorite tobacco, George Washington, but no identification to let me know who was the gracious giv. Thanks, Santa Claus (in the absence of any other name). Later I found out it came from J. Fred.

A. G. Donley brought both me and Andrew nice messes of sweet potatoes. The Donley family and the Whitaker family have been friends ever since A. G.'s father used to play around my grandfather's gin right after the Civil War.

Baxter Wilson, President of the power trust, sent me a handsome ash tray but, unfortunately, it was not enough. It would take one big enough to hold a peck. But, thanks anyway.

Seeing the hoods placed over the parking meters in Grenada Saturday reminds me of a tale. A lady got a wire from her husband in service that he would be home before noon that day. The girl, who had just made up the bed and who had just taken the hood off the parrot's cage and who had just pulled up the shade, immediately began reversing the operations, by putting the hood back on the parrot's cage, turning down the bed and pulling down the shade. The parrot, wisely said, "That, show was a short day."

Thanks to Byron Hunter for a hand full of match covers. I guess he has used out of those fingernail files.

Our neighbors, the Morrisons, who are about the best customers Lester Whalen has for parking tickets got last Saturday.

Huckle Marascalo's boy, Tony, was taken in as circular catcher sady. He follows in the footsteps of a long line of circular catchers here. Among them were Frances, Carmen, Jeckle, Mabel and me. Roy Donk's son, Mabel, caught last week. He was not much of a catcher, but he did not even one circular get out the back

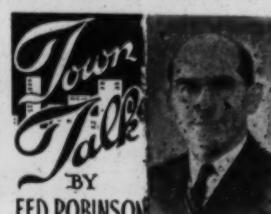

We have been talking about getting blank papers for the delinquents long time. We may do that next week, for that issue is scheduled to a "local" issue. If you want to a legal issue, clean off your desk for next week.

Huckle Jr. our Saturday paper-catcher, is a very sturdy eight year old.

"And so it was, that, while they were there . . . she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn . . ." It is an old story and one we believe is absolutely true, and we feel sorry for those who would not believe it. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale relates a story which refugees from Hungary tell about the teaching of children in Hungary. The story says the Communists say this is the true story: "There was once a poor married couple who had nothing to eat or to dress in. They asked rich people for help and the rich people sent them away and the baby was born in a stable and covered with rags in a manger. The day after the baby was born some shepherds who had come from Russia brought the baby gifts. 'We come from a country where poverty and misery are unknown. In Russia the babies grow in liberty because there is no unemployment or suffering.' Joseph, the unemployed worker, asked the shepherds how they had found the house. The shepherds replied that a red star had guided them. Then the poor family took to the road. The shepherds covered the little baby with furs and they set out for the Soviet Paradise.'

Poor little Hungarian children. It is bad enough they must hear such lies but it will be a bitter tragedy if they are made to believe it. Well, there will always be a Christmas because Christmas lives in the heart of little children and grown-ups are also only children who remember hanging their stockings on the old mantle piece over the fire place long long ago.

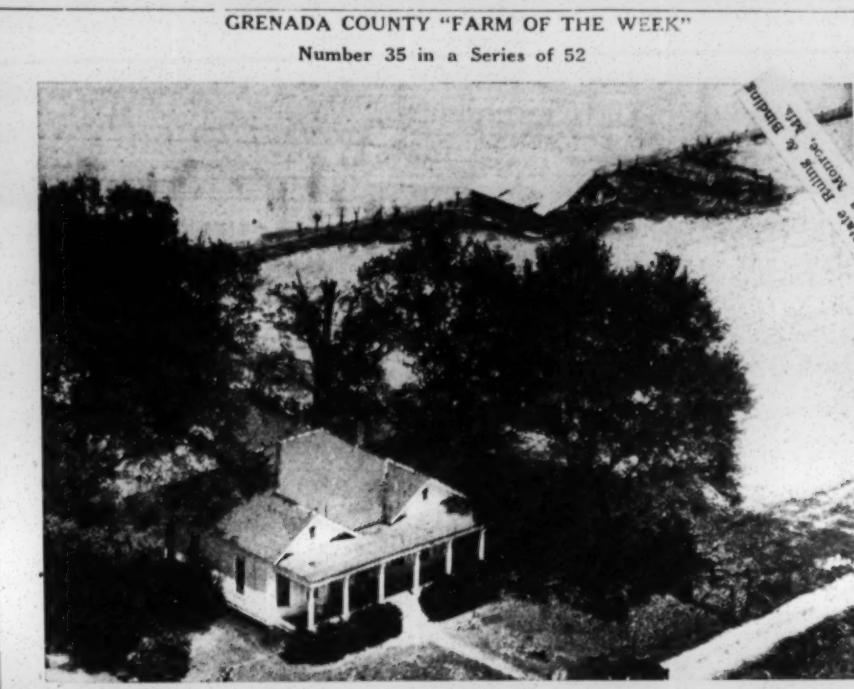

Pardon me if I tell of my personal experiences, but ones personal experiences are the things one knows about first hand. One Christmas long time ago when we lived on a river valley farm in Tennessee, my father went all out in buying his family special things. He bought a barrel of apples, a full crate of oranges, a rim of cheese, a full crate of crackers and about 20 pounds of assorted nuts. I remember very well the satisfied look on his face as he carted this load of staple foodstuffs into his kitchen. It was a big surprise to us. We never decorated the house with holly and mistletoe although there must have been an abundance of both in the nearby woods. We had no lighted candles or wreath hanging in the window. We had kerosene lamps on the mantel and wood fire in the big fire place and a wooden latch on the front door, we had plenty home made quilts and clean sheets and feather mattresses and my mother hung her dresses on a big nail on back side of the door. But . . . we had a real Christmas. Do you say "those poor poor Robins?" well, please don't because who can tell whether those were the good old days or are these the better days when you want to weigh and measure happiness?

However . . . since that was my life and today is your life I would wish for you to have all the pretty things your heart desires and may your home have lights of all colors, a big wreath with satin ribbon across your door, and multi-colored packages all over the place, and as your friends drop by and ring your beautiful chimes they will find you with good health and a

He ought to be because he just ate 4 eggs, a pile of toast and several sausages for breakfast. If he had lived back in Italy, they would have given him a pint of red wine also.

Heckle Jr. must have got that talking all the time from his aunt Frances, but we finally taught him to catch papers and leave the talking off.

Sitting hers before Christmas, I want to say that the post office boys, including Postmaster Donald Sharp, seem to try to do good jobs and are doing good conscientious jobs.

Said bonds are to bear date of February 1, 1955, are to be of the denomination of $1,000 each, and shall bear interest at a rate or rates to be determined pursuant to sale of said bonds, payable semi-annually on February 1 and August 1 in each year. Both principal and interest on said bonds will be payable at a bank to be designated by the purchaser, subject to the approval of the Board of Supervisors, and said bonds shall mature, without option of prior payment, on February 1 in each of the years as follows:

$25,000.00 in each of the years 1956 through 1960;

Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check, certified check, or exchange, issued or certified by a bank located in the State of Mississippi, payable to Supervisor's District No. One, in the amount of Twenty-one Thousand, Five Hundred Dollars ($21,500), as a guarantee that the bidder will carry out his contract and purchase the bonds if his bid is accepted. If the successful bidder fails to purchase the bonds pursuant to his bid and contract, the amount of such good faith check shall be retained by the Board of Supervisors and converted into the funds to said bidder as liquidated damages, or as liquidated damages.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The bonds will be delivered to the individual or organization of the bidder by the law firm of Chidester and Traenhardt of St. Louis, Missouri. The District will pay the legal fees and will pay for the printing of the bonds and the cost of the validation of said bonds. Delivery of the bonds will be made to the purchaser within sixty days after the date of sale, at a place to be designated by the purchaser and without cost to the purchaser.

City Recinds Order For Free Parking On Saturday.

After the first trial day of free parking for Saturday, the City Council called a special meeting Monday December 20th, 1954 and rescinded the order. This first trial day resulted in a traffic congestion and presented a serious hazard to the fire protection and also to pedestrians. It was the consensus of opinion of the council that the parking meters were an asset in helping the parking problems and assisted in the control of traffic. The council vote was unanimous by those present to rescind the order of free parking.

The police Department also wishes to warn the public that parking in the middle of the street by passenger cars and pickup trucks are in violation of the traffic laws. Violators will be fined for this offense.

The Day After

Lesson for December 26, 1954

THE day after Christmas lets us down with a thud. So does the day after any great occasion. The songs have been sung, the candles have burned down, some of the toys have already been broken, the dishes have to be washed . . . we feel tired and flat. For some, it is almost a relief to get back to work, with Christmas "out of our system." Now we should not be surprised at this, nor cry about it. After the Mount of Transfiguration comes a sick boy in a dusty valley. After every high day comes a long string of low days. Religion, the religion of the Bible is not a thing intended only for Sundays and holidays. It is religion for the clammy day after.

The Old Counselor

There is one book in the Old Testament which many readers find hard to understand, more than any other. It hardly seems to fit in with the rest of the Bible. Where other writers sing, this one just talks. Where other writers soar into the heavens, this one considers heaven to be so far away that it is not worth while to talk about it. Where other Bible writers are full of hope and optimism, this one is gloomy to his very bones. He could well be called the Philosopher of the Morning After. We have to remember one or two things about "Ecclesiastes" as the writer is not too appropriately called. He is not what we would call a "preacher" for that is what the name Ecclesiastes means. He is more like a columnist, a giver of advice, a counselor. He is not a Christian, and so we must not expect that he will come up to the height from which a Christian sees life. He is an old man, and has "had everything" except happiness. He is not a complete cynic—that is to say, there are some things in which he does believe. But his beliefs are held, so to speak, under a cloudy sky. It is a wonderful thing that in the Providence of God this book was included in our Bible, for it gives us just what we need when we too are let-down on some dark day after Christmas. The old counselor catches us on the rebound and gives us, if we will listen, some unexciting and perhaps unhelpful but still useful advice for our Days After.

Dead End Crisis

The face the old man of the Old Counselor is, "Vanity of Vanities." Emptiness of Emptiness—life to him is like one of these nests of boxes—empty as seen on the toy counters: You open the big one and find another just as big. You open that and it holds a slightly smaller one . . . and so on till you come to the last box of all. Must be a coincidence? No, you open it and it's full of nothing. So this old man, who had been full of hopes and yearning for such things, who was disappointed, then after a while, but he never found happiness. All is Vanity, and a Struggle with Wind. You can't catch the wind and if you could, he says, "nothing." In life, nothing in pleasure, nothing in learning, nothing in love. Being, as was said, no Christian, he sees nothing even in the next life to lure him on. Beyond this world he sees only "no work, nor device, nor wisdom, nor knowledge, in the grave, whither thou goest." (9:10).

But Life Must Go On

Nevertheless, even this gloomy and disillusioned man finds some things in life in which he does believe. He believes in work for work's sake. He knows all human works perish; he knows a man's best work may be unappreciated and unpaid; but still "there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his works" (13:22). A good thought for the day we have to get back to work! Then he believes in enjoying God's gifts as they come; in sharing what we have: "Give a portion to seven, yea, even unto eight" (11:2). But under and through all, he believes in obedience to God. It is true, this old counselor did not know God as Christians have known him. He had lacked the experiences of suffering, and of love, and of the forgiveness of sin. Still, even with his clouded vision, even thinking as he did of God as far away and mysterious, he knows God has given man certain laws to live by; he knows that it is at least right to do right. "Fear God and keep his commandments" is his last word.
